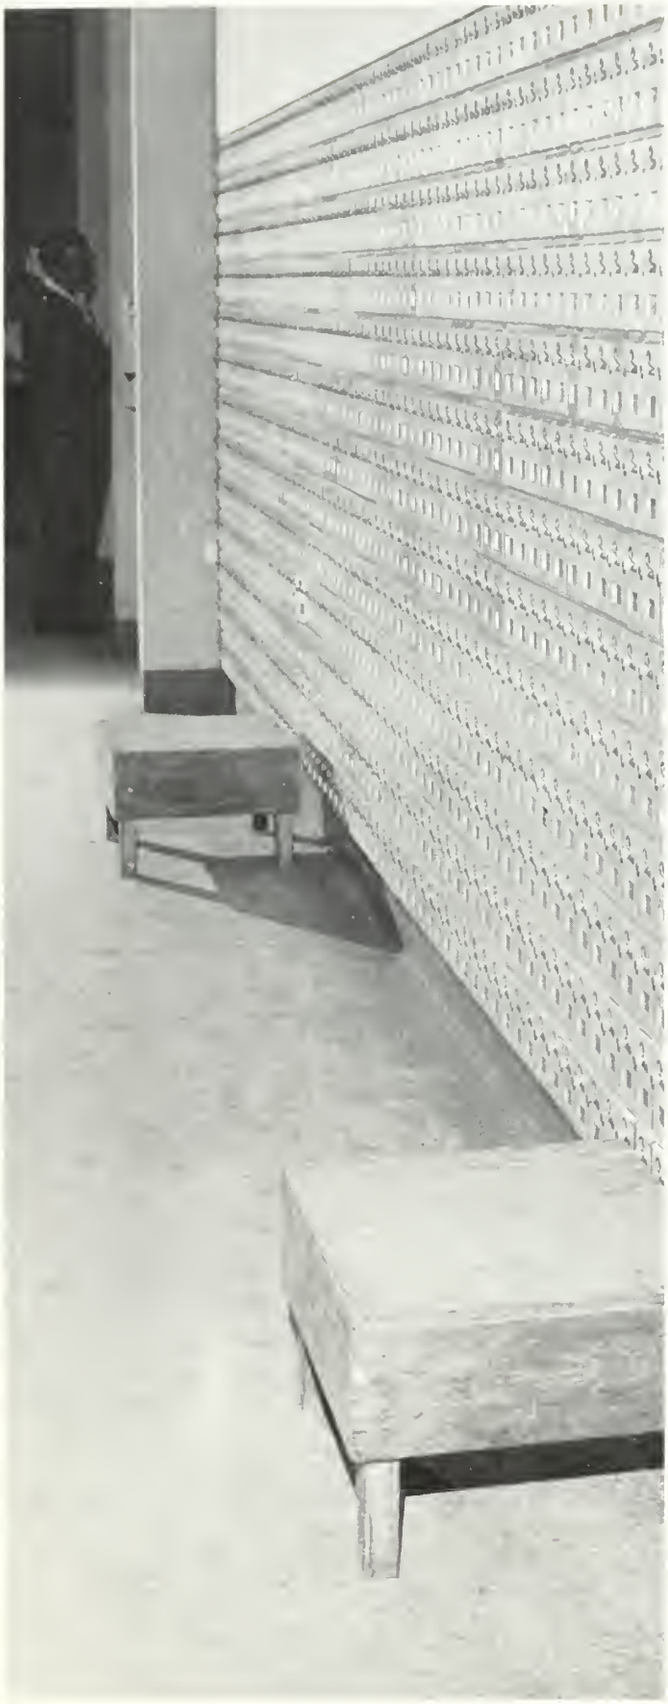
VALDOSTA STATE COLLEGE

Valdosta, Georgia



Seeking this identity
I came

Contorted fragments of
Nostalgic memories
Lay splintered at my feet

Memories of a person
Talking to someone,
Somewhere, sometime,
And somehow not really
Understanding

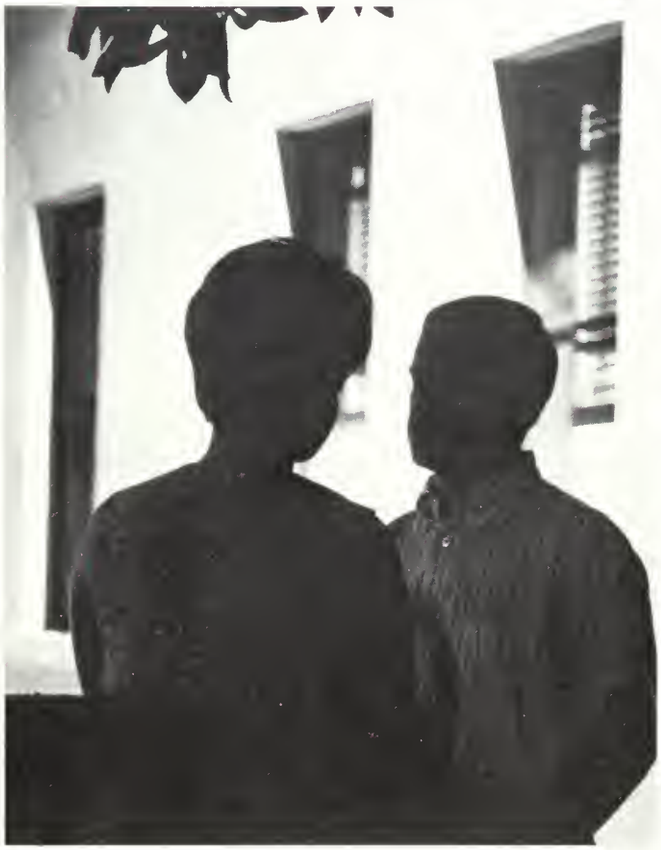
Memories of a time
A place
A way of life

Memories of lovers who
Share the complexities
Of the world
Without even needing to
Try to understand



I had thought time
Was a man-made illusion
Measuring mountains
Of nothingness

Monstrous to look at
And impossible for me
To escape

Through this distraction
My life becomes a part
Of many people . . .

People living among the forms

The beautiful, stately Spanish
Mission building style . . .

Each person seeking to
Express himself in some way
To gain the identity needed

At last I find my identity
And become a part of this world,
Leaving behind another.

GROUND BREAKINGS

VSC Growth Continues As New Buildings Rise

With new buildings in planning or construction stages all over the campus, ceremonies this year marked the official breaking of ground for two new residence halls for women. Three story, 200-bed Georgia Hall was first, and is now two-thirds completed. In June, the shoveling of dirt formally started construction of John Wesley Langdale Hall, VSC's first highrise. A five story, 500-bed hall, Langdale was named for a pioneer south Georgia settler and buisness leader, and the shovel was handled by his son Judge Harley Langdale, Sr., and grandson John W. Langdale, Chairman of the Board of Regents. Langdale Hall will eventually go to 10 floors, standing tall in the center of the VSC campus.

FRESHMEN SCHOLARS

President Recognizes Previous Performance

Ten new VSC students were named Presidents' Freshmen Scholars at the beginning of the 1967-68 academic year. Their selection was based on grades in high school, standing in high school, a personal interview, scholastic aptitude tests, predicted college performance. The group was honored at the Convocation at the opening of the college year in September.

PARENTS WEEKEND

First Annual Event Attracts Many Parents

More than 450 parents came to the VSC campus for the first observance of PARENTS WEEKEND. The Moms and Dads met the faculty, were entertained by President and Mrs. Martin, were hosted to hamburgers by IFC and Panhellenic, viewed the Planetarium and enjoyed a variety show and the play "After The Fall." It was a time for checking on grades, meeting "steadies," visiting the residence halls or touring the campus. In other words, a great weekend!

SGA PRESIDENT BILL PANNELL

BILL MOORE, VICE PRESIDENT

It was, indeed, a year of change as the Student Government Association instituted the Student Code of Ethics, the Student Judiciary System, and Parents' Weekend at Valdosta State College. Students, in unprecedented numbers, became more integral parts of the College—through the tireless efforts of the Student Government Association.

As Valdosta State is growing, so grows the Student Government Association. Complete changes keep the officers and representatives in a frenzied rush throughout the year. Total reorganization was the 1968 theme of the SGA, and Student Responsibility was the cry that was so favorably met by the members of the Valdosta State College administration. New peaks of effective communication were reached between students and officials of the College.

Yet through the changes, through the challenge of new problems, the SGA members as selected officials of the student body, kept the Valdosta State College traditions, including Homecoming, alive and growing.

Student Court Has Disciplinary Powers

Established by the Student Code of Ethics as an integral function of the Student Government Association, The Student Court was the final authority on student disciplinary problems. As a new organization, the year was crowded with problems that arose, but the caliber of the people that served on the Court made it a practical reality on the Valdosta State College campus that has been firmly established.

Campus Canopy Keeps Students Up-to-Date

The Campus Canopy, in its fourth year of publication, reports college news, interjects humor into the academic routine, and airs student opinion. Having no formal school of journalism to insure its publication, the paper appears periodically with the help of a small minority of journalistically inclined students who for unknown motivations care enough to sacrifice time, studies and sanity to keep the presses rolling.

While this annual will be a source of nostalgic in the future, the Campus Canopy will have long since crumbled into obscurity. The paper tries not to perserve the past but to faithfully report the present.

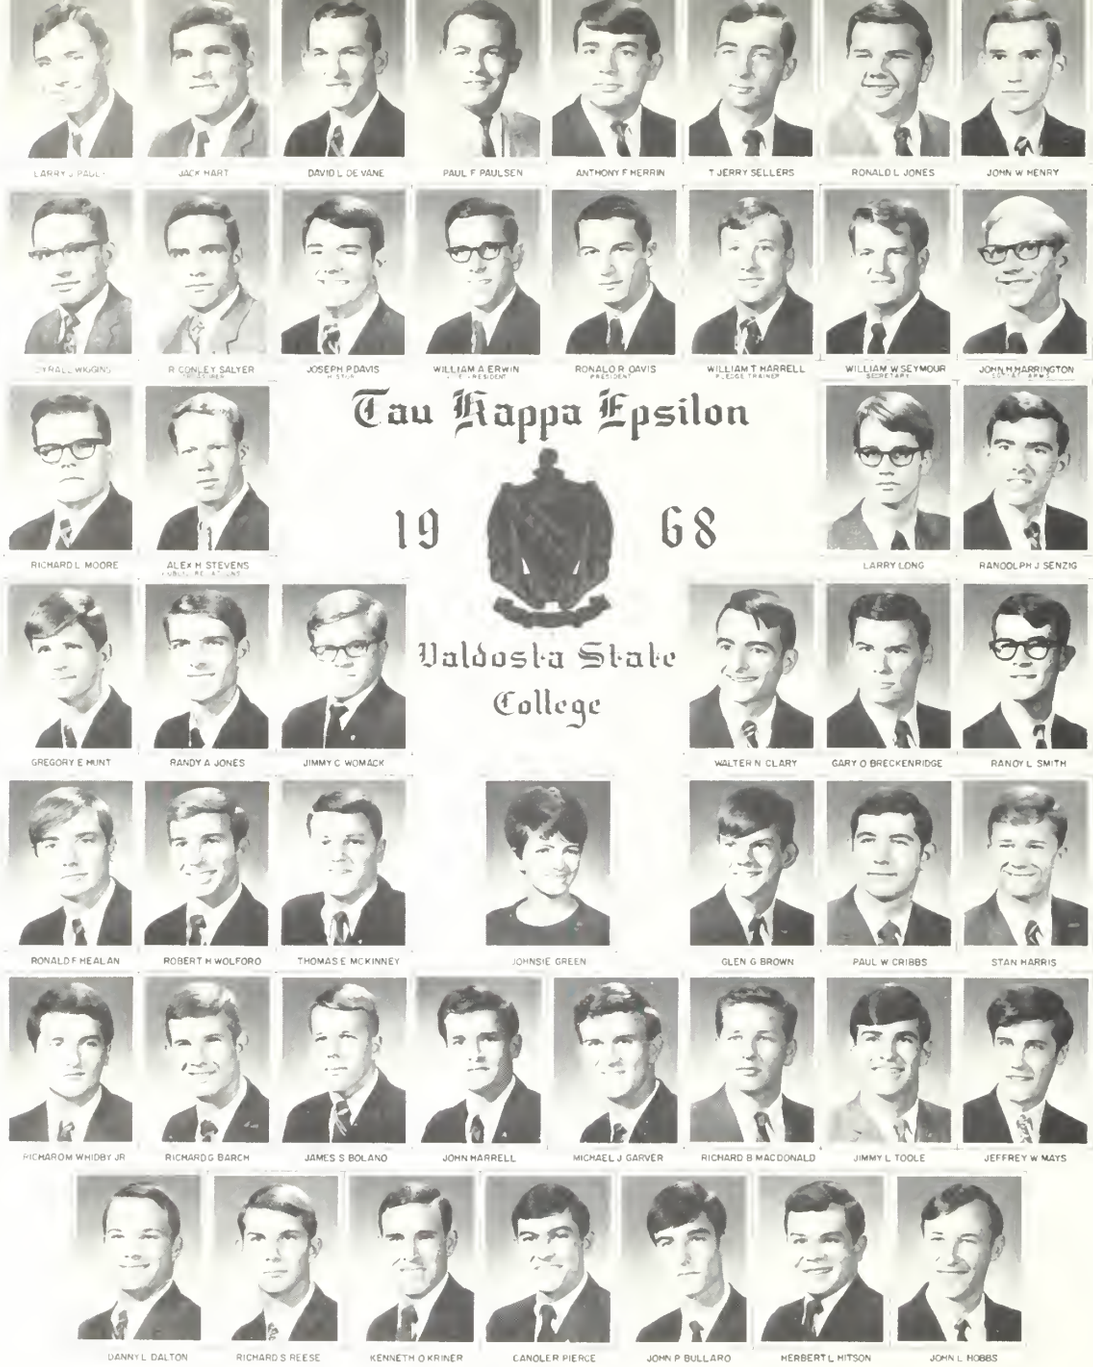
In 1955, a colony of Sigma Epsilon was formed on the Valdosta State College campus. Five years later it became the Georgia Gamma Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity. From the outset, Sigma Phi Epsilon brothers at Valdosta State have worked to create and encourage the perpetuation of friendship among men, and have held important positions in the campus community. They have sought through example and leadership to develop, strengthen and maintain high moral principles, so vital to future happiness and success of all individuals.

ΣΦΕ



Tau Kappa Epsilon

In 1959, Zeta Nu Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity was established at Valdosta State College. Since that time, brothers have been selected on personal abilities, character and talents for leadership. The Fraternity maintains an outstanding record in both College and community relations. Their "Miss VSC Calendar Girl" selection is an annual event of much interest for VSC students. Such projects as administration of the national President's Physical Fitness Examination to Valdosta Junior High pupils has brought the brothers closer to the City in which they live most of the year.

TKE

Delta Chi

In 1967, a colony of Delta Chi was established at Valdosta State College, composed of eleven men living in Brown Residence Hall, all sharing the same ideals, beliefs and interests. Growing in number and respect, the colony received its charter May 5, 1968. In a few months, the Valdosta Chapter of Delta Chi National Fraternity had made its presence known in all areas of College activities. Stressing the importance of scholarship, athletics, social and extracurricular participation, Delta Chi men seek to develop themselves into well-rounded individuals.

Rebels Win District 25 NAIA Championship

The 1967-68 edition of the Valdosta State College Basketball Rebels won their second consecutive District 25 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics championship, their third consecutive Georgia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championship and their seventh G.I.A.C. title in eight years.

Consequently, the Rebs made their second coveted trip to Kansas City, Mo., to compete for national honors. Along the way, the "Fabulous Five Horsemen of the Hardwood" amassed a 23—10 won-loss record.

The Rebel attack was paced by returning letterman Bryan Phillips, of Marietta, who was named third team All-America in the N.A.I.A. for his performance at forward; Forward Mike Terry, of Hammond, Indiana, who was named to the All-G.I.A.C. team; Guard Ron Fortner, of Gary, Indiana, who also was named to the All-G.I.A.C. squad; and Guard Bob Lamphier, of Crown Point, Indiana.

Sophomores Robert McKenney, of Marietta, and John Trimnell, of Columbus, Indiana, also contributed much to the success of the Rebels.

Leading scorers for the Rebs were Mike Terry with a season-high total 571 points, followed by Bryan Phillips with 470 and Ron Fortner with 401.

At Kansas City in March, the Rebels, representing District 25 of the N.A.I.A., were defeated by Central State University of Ohio, 60—53, the eventual winner of the national small college championship.

The Rebels lose four starters via graduation from the 1967-68 Rebel squad. In conclusion, it was a fine year for the Rebels on the national scene and they were a source of much joy and pride to Rebel boosters.

McKenney hit 12 points and garnered 20 rebounds as the Rebs downed the Bucs, 76—58, to make the finals. The scoring punch for the Rebs on opening night was provided by Guards Bob Lamphier and Ron Fortner. Each scored 15 points.

BAND

VSC Band Promotes Student Pep, Spirit

In the second year of organization, the VSC Band is very active on the VSC campus. The group presented a Christmas Concert, provided music for "Kiss Me Kate" and played an excellent concert in Mathis Municipal Auditorium. Ensembles from the band provide programs for civic and church programs, and, on campus, the band is active in most major events. The Pep Band provides music for Rebel basketball games.

LANGUAGE ARTS

Communications for Better Relationships

To be able to express one's self clearly and concisely, regardless of the language, is one of man's richest blessings for success and happiness.

The Department of English seeks to develop a full understanding and sincere appreciation of our great literary heritage. In addition, the highly qualified faculty members teach students to read carefully and to effectively express themselves.

Talented members of the Department of Speech and Drama faculty provide instruction and experiences from basic speech fundamentals through production and acting techniques. Also, all students of the Collete are invited to participate in at least three major theatre productions each year.

Lessons of the Past Challenge the Future

The Department of History, one of the most outstanding in the State, is dedicated to bringing alive the events of the past, and preparing this generation for building on such events to help make today's world a finer place for generations of the future.

Courses are offered on world, natural and state level, with emphasis on different periods and important events of these times. The economic, social and cultural conditions are considered as important as are the wars and politics, and attention is called to the historical development and significance of arts and sciences.

In addition to the excellent undergraduate degree program, the College, this year, inaugurated the Master of Arts Degree program with a major in history.

William M. Gabard (A.B., M.A., Ph.D.) Head of Department

Donald E. Gerlock (B.S. Ed., M.S.Ed., Ed.D.) Head of Department

EDUCATION

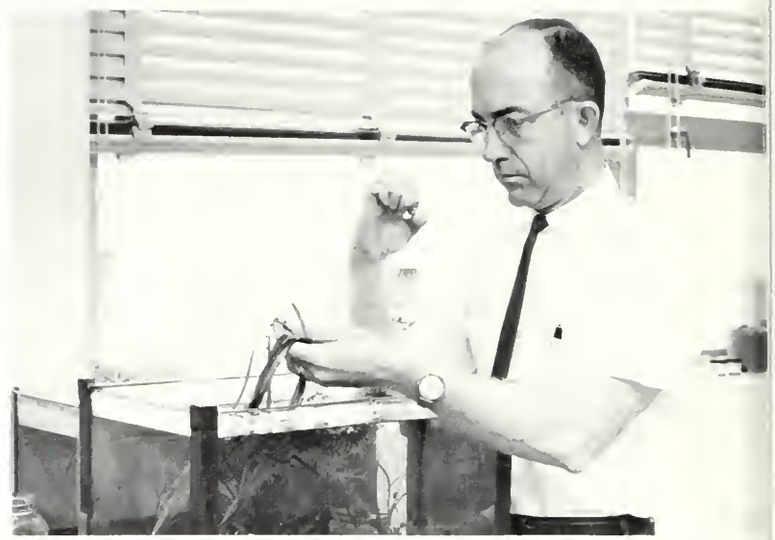
Education Courses Help the Teaching Technique

Recognizing its responsibility to the state of Georgia and the South in development of more qualified school teachers, the Department of Education directs its attentions and efforts toward this end. A faculty of well-informed women and men expose students to every opportunity for achieving future success in this important profession.

The VSC education major is challenged to properly equip himself or herself for teaching the young child to read, the teenager to develop his abilities or the adult to become a truly happy, capable citizen.

The Department was the first at the College to offer graduate studies, implementing the work leading to the Master of Education Degree a year ago. Future planning and growth for this area of the College academic program appears unusually bright, with long-range planning directed toward providing teachers second-to-none in the country.

Clyde E. Connell (B.S., M.S., Ph.D.) Head of Department



BIOLOGY

Scientific Studies Are Essential to Education

The Department of Biology, always growing and becoming stronger, provides opportunities for the student in both the major subject and related sciences. A well-trained staff offers complete instruction in line with curriculum revision in Biology at other institutions in Georgia and the nation. Attention is also given to preparation of those desiring for admittance to graduate schools for continued study in this field.

The Natural Resources Institute, a summer workshop offered for selected Georgia teachers, is in its third year at Valdosta State. This experience not only provides a better training and understanding for the participants, but also acquaints them with the excellence of the Department of Biology for their knowledge in encouraging future students to attend the College.

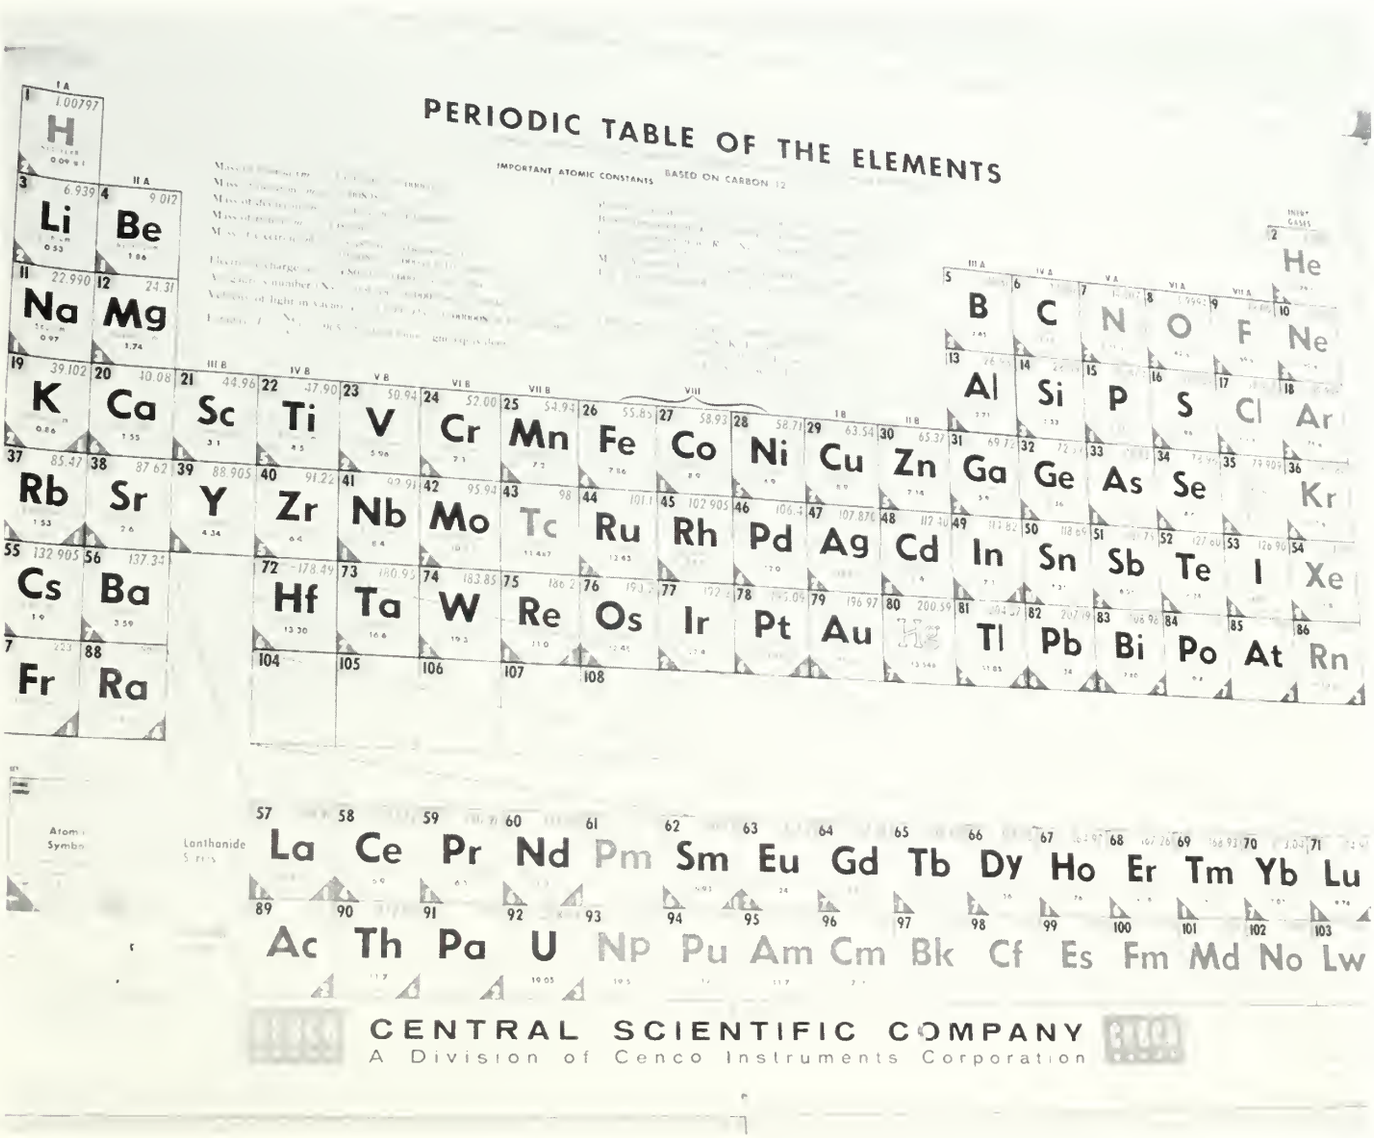
CHEMISTRY

Study of the Elements Holds Key to Future

In today's modern laboratories, guided by expert faculty personnel, the Department of Chemistry is prepared to provide the key for the student's use in opening the doors of enlightment in this vast and exciting field. The student of Chemistry is encouraged to apply his knowledge of this subject to success and understanding in all areas of his existence.

The instruction is designed for stimulating the mind so that the science of Chemistry—and with it, the related sciences—fascinates and also answers many important and vital questions in the mind that is searching for more happiness, good health and success.

Harry M. Duvall (B.S., Ph.D.) Head of Department



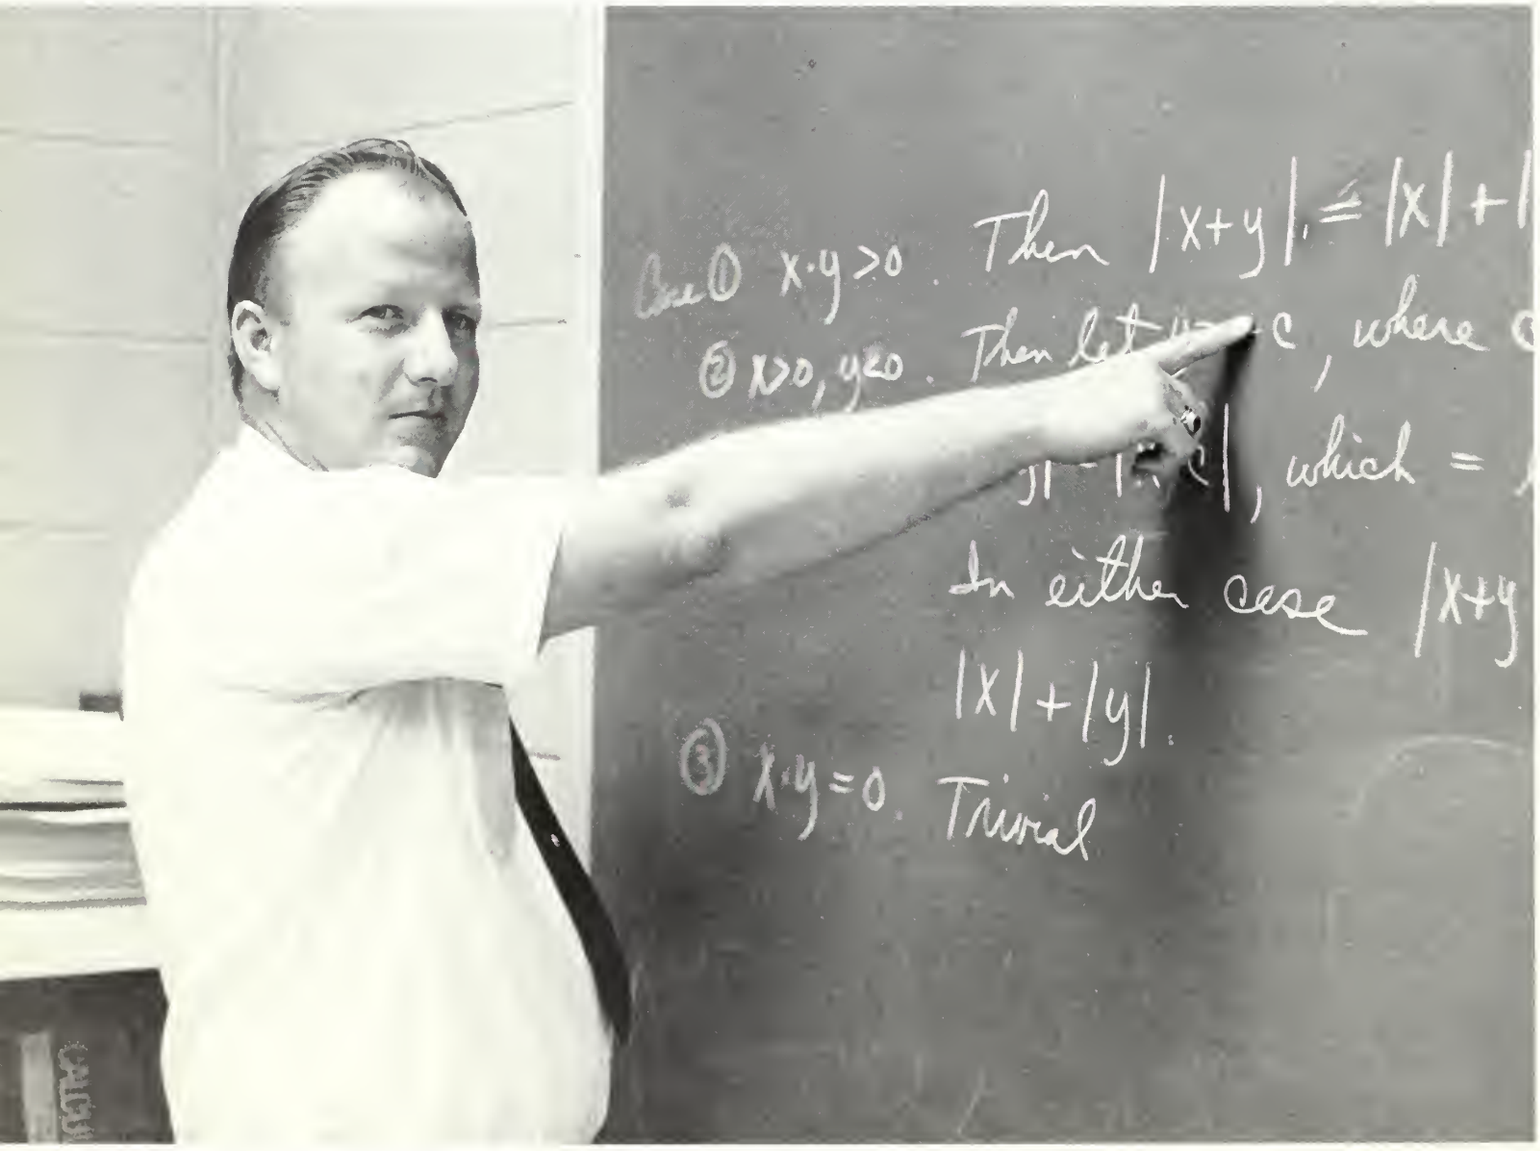
MATHEMATICS

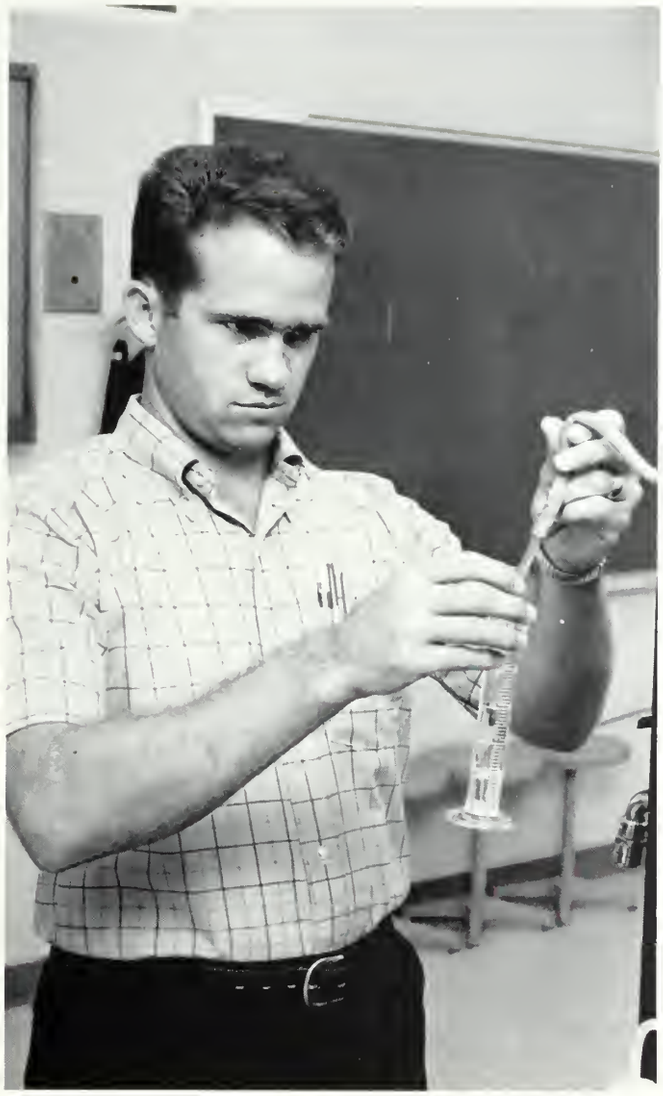
Numerical Skills Help Develop Logical Thought

In the Mathematics courses, the students sees the relationship of certain principles to numbers, to events and to total situations. As these avenues of thought are explored through the capable guidance of fine mathematicians, there develops an awareness of the order of things as they exist around us. From this one may more rationally and logically develop the ability to meet the problems of everyday life.

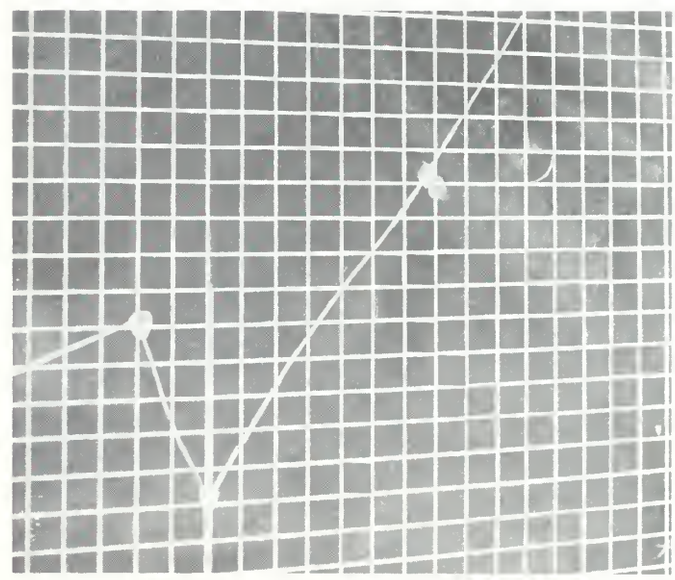
Numbers are important, but to the Department of Mathematics faculty member there is also the challenge to offer through these the understanding of a system of logic which may be readily applied to the various aspects of the modern enviornment.

Dr. Donald L. Duncan (B.S., M.S., Ph.D.) Head of Department





Raymond E. Hunter (B.S., M.S. Ph.D.) Head of Department



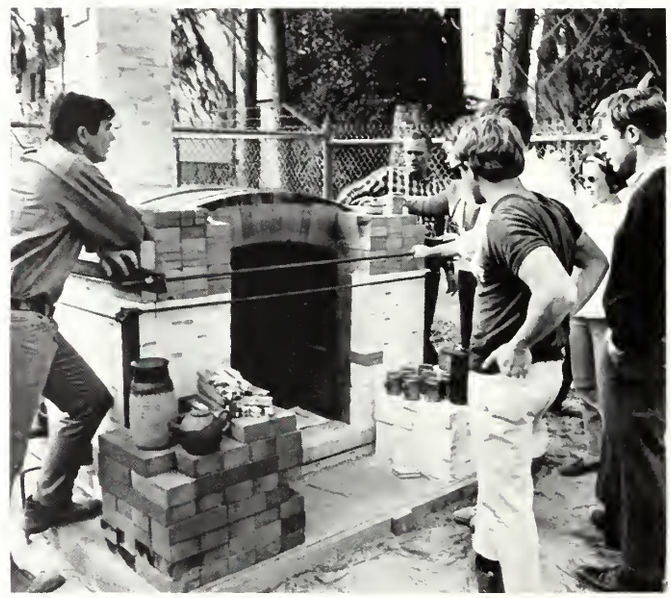
PHYSICS

Understanding Related Sciences Is Stressed

The Department of Physics, with its expertly trained, highly qualified faculty, excites and informs the student who questions both the simple and the complex, the living and the non-living, the minutely small and infinitely great. His study, which reaches out to include better understanding of the related sciences, attempts to reveal to the individual the causes, the effects and the inter-relationship of physical events of the world around him.

The Valdosta State Planetarium in the Department of Physics has brought a better understanding of the universe to all those who have had their eyes and minds opened through this marvelous teaching aid.

Joseph W. Pember (A.B., M.F.A.) Head of Department



ART

Self Expression Is Developed in Artists

The Bachelor of Arts Degree is offered for the student desiring to major in Art.

Through the Art Department several student and faculty Art shows are held throughout this region, as the Department allows the student to step beyond the realm of the classroom and studio to meet and discuss his work as well as the work of others, with interested persons. Individual creativity is openly encouraged as students gradually begin to grasp that talent with which they were endowed.

The formation of the Student Art Association came about after the students expressed a desire to have another type of opportunity in which they could help each other. Through such joint efforts came the building of the kiln behind the gym and art shows in the Library Gallery.

MUSIC

Musical Appreciation and Skill Developed

The Bachelor of Arts Degree is offered to students who desire to major in Music.

The Music Department in the growth that is so typical of Valdosta State College, has expanded its facilities not only in numbers but also in opportunities that are provided for students to pursue their musical inclinations such as the Stage Band, the Pep Band, the Glee Club, the Serenaders, and the various ensembles that entertain in neighboring communities.

Through the Concerts presented during the year, and the active support the Music Department gave to the Musical productions of the Speech Department, members of both the College community and the civic community were given an opportunity to view those talents so effectively collected in the Music Department.

Webster W. Teague (B.M., M.M.E.) Head of Department

Augustus I. Riedel, Jr. (B.S.Ed., M.A.) Head of Department.

SOCIOLOGY

Study of Patterns in Society and Understanding

In pursuing the studies in the field of Sociology, the student comes to know more about the social science of human relationships in his every day world. Through this learning, he is taught to recognize existing and seek new solutions for solving the problems that are present in his society.

In the Department of Psychology, the student comes to know more about the science of the "why" of human behavior, as he better becomes more aware of the whole range of human experience.

John Maury Branan (B.A., M.R.C., Ed.D.) Head of Department.

PSYCHOLOGY

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Development of the Body Vital to Health

Recognizing the importance of physical fitness to the general health and happiness of the individual both today and in the years to come, the Department of Physical Education offers a diversified program dedicated to this end. In a few hours a day and a genuine desire to enjoy one's self is provided the excitement of using sports as a further means of becoming the well-rounded college student.

Under the capable guidance of a well-qualified and trained faculty, the student takes required courses in physical education and participates in Intramural sports and other activities that bring stimulation both physically and mentally.

The story of a year—the conflicts, confrontations, contributions and conquests could not possibly be revealed between the covers of a simple book. For each individual at Valdosta State College, the story is different and scope varied. However, I sincerely hope that we have captured Valdosta State College, 1968, as you would like to remember it. Many long hours of planning and production have been given in hopes we may bring to you the story of a very progressive and memorable year—a year that is now part of the proud heritage of Valdosta State College.

My special thanks go to Dan Troy, American Yearbook Company representative; Fluker G. Stewart, annual advisor; members of the College Relations staff; Larry Bookman, our photographer; the Valdosta Daily Times and the annual staff and others whose efforts and assistance were so invaluable to the publication of this book.

In closing, we pay tribute to the memory of five fellow students, Kitty Sims, Lawrence Martin, Thomas Williams, Jr., Robert Lockington and Michael Rice, who were killed either in combat in Viet Nam or in accidents during the past year. These fine young friends are also very important in our memories of this year at Valdosta State College.
